Identify the type of logical fallacy or manipulative emotional appeal for the following statements:

Red Cross ads ask for donations after environmental disasters strike different regions.

Everyone in Hawaii lives in grass huts.

Hillary Clinton said: “You can put half of Trump supporters into what I call the basket of deplorables.” Donald Trump called Clinton “crooked Hillary.”

Because human bodies become less active as they grow older, and because they eventually die, it is reasonable to expect that political bodies will become less and less active the longer they are in existence, and that they too will eventually die.

If you go to sleep with your hair wet, then you’ll go blind.

Car ads claim that the cost for a luxury vehicle is only a certain price, but when you go in to the dealership, they don’t have that particular model from the ad and the one from the ad doesn’t have all the features that the model at the dealership has.

Both the Democratic and Republican parties have regularly cherry-picked the information that they share with the American public.

Apple computer ads show PC users as old and nerdy while Apple users are young and cool.

There are many rags to riches stories where people who are poor, through hard work and perseverance, work their way up to economic prosperity and security.

The JEEP vehicle company was a sponsor of the 2017 World Surf League competition on North Shore.

Parents tell their young children that they can either eat vegetables for dinner or go to bed early.

News channels constantly report on terrible weather tragedies or the next breaking disaster.

President Reagan was a great communicator because he had the knack of talking effectively to the people.

Regular citizens talk about how much weight they’ve lost after using a diet product.

You can get a credit card with star and musician Usher’s face on it.

Everyone is suddenly a fan of the winning sports team after the Super Bowl.