

Jim Gamble Puppet Productions PETER and the WOLF!

Featuring John Chambers
Master Puppeteer for Jim Gamble Puppet Productions

This highly acclaimed rod-puppet production, presented in the innovative "Curtain of Light" theater format, was originally designed for the Los Angeles Music Center and has been performed over 1000 times for school children and family audiences. The production was awarded the UNIMA Citation for Excellence in Puppetry and has received rave reviews in many publications.

John Chambers has been associated with Jim Gamble for over 20 years and performed "Hansel and Gretel" at Kennedy Theatre with Jim Gamble in 1999. He has performed for McDonald's television commercials, and has worked in music videos and for television sitcoms. Also a software designer, Chambers teaches computer graphics at the Pasadena Art Center College of Design. He has authored technical books for multimedia applications for both Windows and Macintosh. A pioneer in pod-casting and video-casting, he is widely known for his "One-minute Tip" and his innovative development of the short-show format. John resides with his family in Whittier, California, but travels across the country and around the world to perform for the Jim Gamble Company.
