

Notes on Summer Sessions

Shunzo Sakamaki . . .
Dean of Summer Session

Summer Session began at the University of Hawaii in 1927, with 236 students. In 1964 the total enrollment was some 10,800 students, an increase of 15.6% over the 1963 figure of 9,385. The annual increase in recent years seems to maintain a ratio of 70% of the students being from Hawaii, 25% from other states, and 5% from other countries. To cope the tremendous burgeoning of the student population there has been a corresponding expansion of curriculum and faculty. The 1964 summer faculty included 85 visiting lecturers.

Visiting Professors of Education during the past five summer sessions have included the following, many of whom taught special courses offered for the first time in Hawaii.

The foregoing list is indicative of the extensive range of our effort to bring to our campus each summer some of the leading figures in the field of Education. In addition, I should point out, we are proud of the resident faculty in the College of Education, by whom most of our Education courses continue to be taught each summer.
