

Changes In Registration Procedures White Releases New Rules In Attempt To Save Time

In an attempt to simplify and reduce the time required for registration, new rules were recently released by Dr. Bruce White, dean of student personnel.

To simplify registration, a student's class status will remain unchanged. A student who registered as a sophomore in September will still register as a sophomore in February, regardless of the number of credits he has which would ordinarily make him a junior.

Students will register in the same section of all year courses such as History 100 and Zoology 100. This applies also to laboratory sections.

Registering students will receive numbered cards so a considerable time standing in line will be saved. This means that students will register in numerical order.

Dean White pointed out that freshmen and sophomores should prepare their schedules in advance, listing first the year courses and then fitting in other required or elective courses.

Dates for registration are: juniors and seniors, Monday, Feb. 9; sophomores, Tuesday, Feb. 10; graduate and unclassified students, Friday, Feb. 13; student and auditors, Saturday, Feb. 14.

Students will obtain material at the gymnasium, then report to the adviser whose name is on the registration card. After that students are to report to the gymnasium for section and tally; pay fees at the business office and lastly to deposit cards at the registrar's office.

Detailed instructions for registration will be given along with other registration material.

THE VOICE OF HAWAII

VOL. XXVI

UNIVERSITY OF HAWAII, TUESDAY, JANUARY 20, 1948

No. 28

The author of "Poultry Production in Hawaii," the first book of its kind published in the territory, is the university's poultry department head, Charles M. Bice. 1500 copies of his new book will be used soon as textbooks in vocational agriculture. The prominent authority on poultry has made many contributions to poultry husbandry, notable among which was the confinement of chickens in open air houses.

Bice Sees Good Future In Fowl Business Here

"Poultry business in Hawaii is profitable and has a good future if done scientifically and with modern methods," Charles M. Bice, associate specialist in poultry husbandry, said in an interview. Mr. Bice is the author of Poultry Production in Hawaii, the first book of its kind to be published here.

The author disclosed that 1500 copies of his new book are being ordered by the D.P.I. to be used as text books for vocational agriculture in the territory. His 230-page book covers a variety of information including how to get started in the poultry business and how to market products in Honolulu.

In spite of keen competition from the mainland because of air shipment and improved storage methods in steamships, Honolulu is generally a ready and satisfactory market for local poultry produce, Mr. Bice said.

Speaking of the last twenty years, he said great strides have been made in poultry productions here. He recalled once, practically all pullets were imported, whereas today only a few are brought in to bring new blood into local flocks. But there is still room for improvement, he added; the average egg production per bird per year in Hawaii is 128, whereas it is 154 on the mainland.

Mr. Bice has made large contributions to the poultry industry here. He made all chicken pox vaccine prior to the use of commercial fowl pox, and introduced the present method of raising chickens in confinement off the ground in open air houses. He also started among other things the Poultry Improvement Association, whose purposes are to lower fowl mortality, to produce better breeding stock and better products for marketing.

In recognition of the services he has rendered to the poultry industry in the territory, Mr. Bice was given the honorary Future Farmers Planters degree by the D.P.I. and division of vocational agriculture. Mr. Bice is a member of the Farm House fraternity, a member of Alpha Zeta, and has been advisor of the agriculture club for sixteen years.

Dr. Arthur J. Marder, associate professor of history, will be visiting professor of history at Harvard university during an eight-week summer session from June 29 to August 12. He will offer a course in "The Far East in World Politics," treating international problems in Japan, China and Korea, with some mention of Southeast Asia and the relationships among great powers in this whole area.

Taking the lead in next semester's first Theatre Guild production is Patsy Takemoto, senior co-ed at the University. She will play the role of Alexandra in Molnar's fantasy, "The Swan."

She was winner of the Territorial oratorical contest and with Bernard Gramberg formed the senior team which recently won the interclass debate on the question, Should language schools be prohibited?

Strict Proctoring To Characterize Final Exams

Committee Adopts Seven Preventive Measures

By Mike Harada

Stricter proctoring will characterize the final examinations this semester, according to Richard Kosaki, who reported on recent actions taken by the committee investigating cheating.

The recommendations made in the letter to President Gregg M. Sinclair which appeared in the January 16 issue of Ka Leo were adopted by the committee. After two meetings held since the letter was sent to President Sinclair, the following measures were drawn up by the committee to combat the problem of cheating:

1. Any suspected signs of communication (whispering, scribbling notes, eye wandering) will be noted down by the proctors.
2. No borrowing of pencils, ink, erasers, etc., during the examination will be allowed. Students should go to the examination fully equipped.
3. All books will be left on the sides or in the front of the room. Students will not be allowed to carry books to their seats.
4. To avoid confusion, no one will be allowed to leave the room in the last twenty minutes of the examination period.
5. Students should be on time for the examination as there may be a penalty for tardiness.
6. Examination papers will be kept face down until the chief proctor gives the signal to start.
7. When the examination is over, the papers will be placed in several depositories strategically distributed throughout the classroom, as contrasted to the previous practice of having only one place for the depositing of papers.

These measures are being installed specifically for the coming examination and are not meant to be a cure for cheating but purely a preventative.

The committee feels that some students may regard these measures as an insult and as unnecessary for their specific classes, but these steps are specifically designed to check the few who cheat. The committee regards these actions as negative steps and expresses the feeling that it would not like to see these steps installed on a permanent basis.

Two New Courses, Seminar Offered By English Dept.

Two new English courses and a seminar will be offered by the English department next semester according to Dr. Willard Wilson, department chairman. They are: English 205, backgrounds of English literature; English 240, history of literary criticism; and English 310, seminar in Browning and Tennyson.

Backgrounds of English literature, which will be taught by Dr. Carleton Green, is a study of the most important sources of English literary theme and allusions, including the King James Bible and Western European mythology and legends. This course is open to sophomores and students of the upper division.

A course which has not been offered for some time but is being revived again next semester is the history of literary criticism with Dr. A. Grove Day as instructor.

Another class to be taught by Dr. Green and open only to students with consent of their instructors, and graduate students is the seminar in Browning and Tennyson. Especially valuable to those who plan to become teachers, this course is a study of problems, authors, or periods in English or American literature.

BAC Sets Rule For Students Entering Non-UH Athletics

At a meeting of the Board of Athletic Control, held on December 22, 1947, the following rule was adopted in reference to students of the University of Hawaii representing other organizations in athletic contests:

Any student registered at the University of Hawaii wishing to participate in athletic competition in which he represents any organization or individual other than the University of Hawaii must submit to the Board of Athletic Control a written request for approval of such participation. In addition to the approval of the Board of Athletic Control he also must secure the approval of the Director of Athletics and of the University coach of the sport in which he wishes to compete. In no case will approval be granted in opposition to rulings of the NCAA or of the AAU. This procedure will apply to all sports in which the University participates. Any approval granted will be effective for the school year during which the approval is granted, but not beyond that school year.

In adopting this rule, the Board of Athletic Control expressed its belief that, in general, it is not for the best interests of the University to permit a situation where students representing the University are in competition with fellow students representing other organizations.

Veterans - Here's Your Chance

Veterans attending school under the G.I. Bill are given an opportunity to participate actively in a national program for increased subsistence. If things work according to plan, all veterans will receive an increase of $35 a month, or a total of $100 for single vets and $125 for married men, with an additional $10 for each child.

The importance of increased subsistence is pointed out in reports from the national veterans administration and various colleges and universities on the mainland. A recent announcement states that approximately 35 per cent or 1,400,000 students under the G.I. Bill have been forced to drop out of school because of financial and housing problems.

Contacts made locally with veterans on this campus point toward a difficult struggle among men living away from home. Social life has been curtailed and school work hindered by worry over finances.

The campus veterans' club has organized a committee to encourage all vets to write personal letters to Delegate Farrington, or to Congressmen who are not considered friendly to this type of legislation, or to members of the House leadership: Representative Martin, Rep. Allen or Rep. Halleck.

We urge all veterans, whether undergoing financial hardships or not, to take immediate action in this program. Your efforts will help alleviate the problems of fellow veterans on this campus and on the mainland.

Five More Days

Only five more studying days left till finals—and we present the last issue of Ka Leo for the semester. The staff thanks all its readers and contributors for the interest and cooperation shown during the past months. Ka Leo's next publication date is Feb. 17.

If this beehive still buzzes with noisy people and clacking typewriters—it's just the staff trying to catch up on those overdue term papers and final reports.

Mrs. Bacchus Leaves For Canton Isle

"The Gooney Egg and I." That would be a good title for a book, thinks Mrs. Josephine Bacchus, who left last night for an indefinite stay on Canton Island, where her husband is to be the new manager of the Civil Aeronautics Association. Mrs. Bacchus was formerly with the office of publications and publicity of the university.

"The heat is the only thing that's worrying me," said Mrs. Bacchus. "Canton Island is just two degrees from the equator. We will be fairly close to Australia, New Zealand, and even Hawaii, so we won't be too isolated," she continued.

Canton Island is situated about 1625 miles from Hawaii. It is a coral atoll about line miles long and four or five miles wide. There are between seventy-five and a hundred people living there who are employed primarily by P.A.A., Australia National Airways and the C.A.A. Since the island is owned by the United States and Great Britain, citizens of both countries make up most of the population on the island, although there are a few natives.

"It is the last point on the United States civil airways route," said Mrs. Bacchus. "Regular Pan American flights come into and leave the island three times a week."

There is a Pan American hotel there, where the Bacchus will reside temporarily. Movies are held three times a week as the island's only form of entertainment, but Mrs. Bacchus is taking a 'colossal number of books' to keep her company when she tires of the gooney birds. Among her selection, will be Plato, on recommendation of Joe McGuire, Shakespeare's complete works, Thomas A. Kemps, the Columbia encyclopedia, the Oxford dictionary and about eighteen good murder books.

Students may remember Mrs. Bacchus' fine model 1931 sport coupe "Buttercup." Unfortunately, she will be unable to take her car to Canton, neither will she be able to take her pet blue point Siamese cat, but Mrs. Bacchus is taking something with her that is liable to revolutionize the island!

A plane load of coconuts will accompany the couple which they will plant on the tiny atoll in hopes that someday there will be a vast number of trees covering the island. "There are seven dogs and only one tree on Canton. We hope to remedy the situation," laughed Mrs. Bacchus.

"We have no idea how long we'll be on Canton," Mrs. Bacchus declared, "but I will be Ka Leo's official correspondent while I'm there," she promised.

core Turkish March by Beethoven. This selection was not nearly so well done as the other.

After the intermission the orchestra played Mendelssohn's Symphony in A Major—"The Italian."—and did very well by it. It was much the best portion of the program.

Every section of the orchestra appeared to excellent advantage, the flutes being beautifully clear in a lighthearted part and the other instruments entering into the spirit of this delightful music.

The program concluded with Berlioz' Hungarian March from the "Damnation of Faust." The orchestra did fairly well by it and the audience seemed to enjoy it very much.

Soph Bawl To End Exam Week

Carnegie Concert Will Feature Gershwin

The Carnegie music concert on Thursday in the alumni room of Hemenway hall from 12:30 to 1 p.m. will feature the music of George Gershwin.

The selections to be heard are the Concerto in F played by the New York Philharmonic Orchestra under Andre Kostelanetz with Oscar Levant, piano soloist; selections from "Porgy and Bess" with Lawrence Tibbett and Helen Jepson; Rhapsody in Blue, with Paul Whiteman's orchestra and the composer as piano soloist; and the songs "Fascinatin' Rhythm" and "Embraceable You" as played by Andre Kostelanetz's orchestra.

All Play And No Work For Seniors At "Recup" Camp

After all their first semester finals and second semester registration worries are over, the seniors will go out to Mokuleia Tuesday morning, February 10, at 10 o'clock for a three day recuperation camp.

A chartered bus will take all campers without private limousines out to Camp Harold Erdman. Those planning to go by bus should be on the campus early Tuesday morning if they do not wish to walk all the way out to the other side of the island.

A good time is promised all who turn out, for as Robert Kimura, general chairman of the camp stresses, there'll be "no lectures, no texts, no speeches." Facilities and equipment for softball, volleyball, tennis, etc., will be available for the more sports-minded supper-classmen. Also in the program will be movies, jam-sessions, weenie-roasts, and a scavenger hunt. Those who want to sleep away the three days will be free to do so.

The fee for this change at rest and relaxation, plus good food, is $7.00 per person. Seniors may take guests, but must notify the camp chairman and pay their fees early if they plan to do so.

Dr. Shunzo Sakamaki, senior class adviser, will be the official chaperone at the camp.

Committee chairmen aiding Mr. Kimura are: Andrew Seki, transportation; Helen Hashimoto, program; and Kate Kato and Eddie Nakamura, food.

All seniors who have not turned in their camp application blanks are requested to do so immediately.
