Ditransitive 1 GLO

Hi Peter,

My apologies for taking a while to do this for you. I was going to get it done earlier then got side tracked with other things.

I have done them but the last one I got a bit muddled with the inclusion of 'have'. I have taken the meaning as Bill holding a hat for Mary thus I had used the words 'tuqe veko' meaning holding it for Mary. Let me know if this is so ☺.

Roviana Ditransitive Preliminary

Double Complement and 'have'

1. Bill sent a letter to Mary.
Va taloa ia Bili si keke leta la koe Mere.
2. Mary gave a fish to the dog.
Ele poni nia Mere koasa siki si keke igana.
3. I gave a puppy to you.
Ele datu ia rau koa goi si keke tuna siki.
4. You will give a present to me.
Kote va mae ia goi sa vinariponi koa rau.
5. I have a canoe.
Arau ari qua hore/mola.
6. Bill has a friend.
Ari nana baere se Bili.
7. Mary has a big house.
Ari nana vetu nomana se Mere.
8. We have a lot of fun.
Soku hola mami qinetu qetu.
9. Mary blamed the rain for ruining her book.
Zutu ia Mere sa ruku na novalana sa nana buka.
10. Bill blamed the bad smell on the dog.
Zutu la nia Bili sa humana kaleana koasa siki.
11. Mary kicked the ball to the dog.
Taka la nia Mere sa bolo koasa siki.
12. Mary kicked the ball down the road.
Taka gore nia Mere sa bolo pa sirana.
13. Mary taught English to the children.
Va tum'tumae la zinama vaka se Mere koari koburu.

Double Object?

Is there a difference between these sentences in Roviana?

14. Bill gave a hat to Mary.
Ele vala Bili si keke toropae koe Mere.
15. Bill have Mary a hat. "Bill holding a hat for Mary" (GLO)
Tuqe veko ponia keke toropae Bili se Mere.

Ditransitive 2 GLO

Ditransitive 2

1. Bill has a dog.
Tago ia Bili si keke siki.
2. Bill has his dog.
Ari nana siki se Bili
3. The dog has a fish.
Gana sa siki si keke igana
4. The dog has his fish.
Ari gana igana sa siki.
5. Mary is in the house.
Pa vetu se Mere.
6. Mary is in her house.
Pa nana vetu se Mere.
7. Mary is in the garden.
Pa inuma se Mere.
8. Mary is in her garden.
Pa nana inuma se Mere
9. Mary gave her son a book.
Vala ia Mere koasa nana koburu koreo sa buka.
10. Mary gave a book to her son.
Vala ia Mere si keke buka koasa nana koburu koreo.
11. Mary gave the dog her fish.
Vala nia Mere koasa siki sa gana igana.
12. Mary gave her fish to the dog.
Vala nia Mere sa gana igana koasa siki.

Now this one is tricky! Imagine that Mary has a son and that he asked for his book. Can you say 13 in Roviana?

13 Mary gave her son his book.

Vala ia Mere sa nana buka sa nana koburu koreo. This is a tricky one indeed Peter. As a stand-alone statement like this example it does sound a bit odd but is perfectly fine to say it in Roviana ☺.

* Some of these can be written in another way and still be ok. They may be written differently depending on the contexts or questions i.e, where the focus is Mary or the house.

For example - #6 So if Mary is the focus: Mary is in her house = Se Mere si pa nana vetu (this could be an answer to 'Who is in the house?'

If the house is the focus = Pa nana vetu se Mere (This could be in answer to 'whose house is Mary in?'

Roviana is a contextual language in many ways and often don't make sense unless there is a story behind what is said.

I hope these make sense?

WHO

1. Who did Bill kick?

Esei? (singular) Ari sei (plural)

2. Who kicked Bill?

Esei si taka ia Bili?

3. Who did the crocodile eat?

Esei taka ia se Bili?

4. Who ate the fish?

Esei si gani ia basioto?

5. Who is sleeping?
