

ALOHA BASH^{EATURES} P. 12

STUDENT-CREATED CONCERT WILL FEATURE ROYALTY

ΗΟΤΟ $] [4] FILE PHOTO

Open Daily 8-9 2643 S King Near King & University 941-1922 www.kokua.coop

Cooperatively Owned . Sustainability Driven

ADVERTISING

(REGULARLY PRICED ITEM, MUST SHOW PROOF)

<complex-block>

 WITH A PURCHASE

 Description

 With a Purchase

 Description

 Description

advertising7@kaleo.org Ashley Maria

Marketing Director

─ ▼ MEET THE STAFF -

EDITOR-IN-CHIEF Noelle Fuiii MANAGING EDITOR Brad Dell CHIFF COPY FDITOR Wesley Babcock ASSOC CHIEF COPY EDITOR Zeblev Foster DESIGN EDITOR Joelvn Dalit ASSOC DESIGN EDITOR Lauren Tabor NEWS EDITOR Victor Ong ASSOC NEWS EDITOR Courtney Teague FEATURES EDITOR Ikaika Shivelev ASSOC FEATURES EDITOR Spencer Oshita OPINIONS EDITOR Kimberlee Speakman SPORTS EDITOR Drew Afualo ASSOC SPORTS EDITOR Zach Johnson COMICS EDITOR Khari Saffo WEB EDITOR Alden Alavvilla SOCIAL MEDIA EDITOR lasmine Yi PHOTO EDITOR Ken Reves ASSOC PHOTO EDITOR Shane Grace ASSOC PHOTO EDITOR Reese Kato SPECIAL ISSUES EDITOR Nicolyn Charlot ASSOC SPECIAL ISSUES EDITOR Christina Yan

MARKETING DIRECTOR Ashley Maria

− ▼ ADMINISTRATION ——

Ka Leo O Hawai'i is the campus newspaper of the University of Hawai'i at Mānoa. It is published by the Student Media Board weekly except on holidays and during exam periods. Circulation is 10,000. Ka Leo is also published once a week during summer sessions with a circulation of 5,000. Ka Leo is funded by student fees and advertising.

Its editorial content reflects only the views of its writers, reporters, columnists and editors, who are solely responsible for its content. No material that appears in Ka Leo may be reprinted or republished in any medium without permission. The first newsstand copy is free; for additional copies, please visit Ka Leo. Subscription rates are $50 for one semester and $85 for one year. The Student Media Board, a student organization chartered by the University of Hawai'i Board of Regents, publishes Ka Leo O Hawai'i. Issues or concerns can be reported to the board via uhsmb@hawaii.edu.

©2016 Student Media Board http://www.kaleo.org/smb/

▼ LET'S HAVE A CHAT

KA LEO O HAWAI'I UNIVERSITY OF HAWAI'I AT MĀNOA 2445 CAMPUS RD., HEMENWAY HALL 107 HONOLULU, HAWAI'I 96822

 NEWSROOM
 (808) 956-7043

 ADVERTISING
 (808) 956-7043

 FACSIMILE
 (808) 956-9962

KALEO@KALEO.ORG WWW.KALEO.ORG @KALEOOHAWAII

UNIVERSITY of HAWAI'I

CHECK STAR

STAR is UH's degree audit system, which maps your pathway to graduation.

The "What If' function is useful if you're considering changing your major or transfer to another UH campus.

https://www.star.hawaii.edu/ www.15ToFinish.com

FRIDAY, APRIL 15 | 2-7 PM CAMPUS CENTER COURTYARD

Victor Ong news@kaleo.org News Editor @kaleoohawaii

NEWS

03

MEET THE ASUH CANDIDATES KEVIN HARRISC

Undergraduates, meet the people who want to represent you

The Hawai'i Republican and Democatic primaries are over, but campus undergraduates are gearing up to select new leaders for their student government — the Associated Students of the University of Hawai'i (ASUH).

The ASUH is the campus undergraduate student government and states its mission is to represent undergraduate interests.

Once elected, all members of the ASUH will serve a term equal to one vear. All ASUH seats from senators to the president are up for grabs.

Below, you'll find the candidates running for executive positions. All information was obtained via email.

► See our profiles of all candidates on kaleo.org.

YEAR | IUNIOR RUNNING FOR | TREASURER, SENATOR

WHY ARE YOU RUNNING FOR OFFICE?

MAJOR | MARKETING

"I am running for the ASUH treasurer [so] I may be able to gain more experience and a better understanding on how a budget is formed and allocated. ... By having a better understanding of budget allocation, I may be able to find more solutions that lead to college affordability."

WHAT EXPERIENCES/SKILLS/KNOWLEDGE DO YOU BRING TO THE ASUH?

"During my [tenure] I have written resolutions that were geared towards lessening the financial challenges a student may face when seeking their respective major(s)."

HOW ARE YOU GOING TO REPRESENT AND

ADVOCATE FOR THE UNDERGRADUATES? "I will represent my constituents by keeping an open mind and active dialogue. Policies and resolutions that I introduce, vote and sign on will advocate for their rights as students of the university."

IN ONE SENTENCE, WHY SHOULD PEOPLE VOTE FOR YOU?

"People should vote for me because I aim to promote a policy on transparency to allow students better access to knowledge that can enrich their lives and enhance their student experience at UH Mānoa."

MAJOR | ARCHITECTURE - ENVIRONMENTAL DESIGN YEAR | FRESHMAN RUNNING FOR | SECRETARY, SENATOR

WHY ARE YOU RUNNING FOR OFFICE?

"I'm running for senator ... as well as for secretary, which is an executive board position, ... because I want to be the person that takes the issues that the architecture students, as well as the student body in general, talk about and bring them to the forefront."

WHAT EXPERIENCES/SKILLS/KNOWLEDGE DO YOU BRING TO THE ASUH?

"[In high school] I held multiple titles carrying from secretary, to treasurer, to student body president. ... I don't believe in excluding anybody or any ideas, rather [I believe in] working as a team to ensure that things get handled in a manner that respects as many people as possible."

HOW ARE YOU GOING TO REPRESENT AND ADVOCATE FOR THE UNDERGRADUATES?

"I'm always socializing with people, so to advocate for the undergraduates, you first have to get to know them. I will always ask students questions about what concerns them, what they think could be improved upon, etc. because ASUH would be nothing without the students."

IN ONE SENTENCE, WHY SHOULD PEOPLE VOTE FOR YOU?

"All too often, voices are muted because change is a scary thing to deal with but it's time for that ideology to move to the side so people can finally be heard."

SOURCE: SCOTT NISHIHARA

MAJOR | ELECTRICAL ENGINEERING YEAR | JUNIOR RUNNING FOR | SECRETARY, SENATOR

WHY ARE YOU RUNNING FOR OFFICE?

"I'm running for secretary because I want to use the skills I have gained from the senate these past two years to record accurate minutes for our meetings for public access to increase transparency between ASUH and the student body."

WHAT EXPERIENCES/SKILLS/KNOWLEDGE DO YOU BRING TO THE ASUH?

"Over the past two years, I've been a senator-at-large and a vice-chairperson ... [and] I have experience with the procedure on how to write minutes. Writing minutes is a daunting task since ASUH wants to be transparent with what goes on in their meetings."

HOW ARE YOU GOING TO REPRESENT AND ADVOCATE FOR THE UNDERGRADUATES?

"I plan on introducing legislation in support of more water fountains on campus and supporting other issues that directly relate to the students, such as tuition and parking."

IN ONE SENTENCE, WHY SHOULD PEOPLE VOTE FOR YOU?

"People should vote for me because I have a desire to improve how ASUH serves the student body."

NEWS

KA LEO O HAWAI'I: THE VOICE

news@kaleo.org Victor Ong @kaleoohawaii News Editor

Courtney Teague Associate News Editor

Not just for high school students

Congressman Takai hosting college-prep workshops

ANDREW MENOR STAFF WRITER

Following Congressman Mark Takai's introduction of the Clear Act – a bill to ease student loan repayment – Takai has continued to make college more affordable and accessible for Hawai'i families by offering a series of college prep workshops.

"Hawai'i's universities and colleges are a monumental resource to the residents of our great state." Takai said in an email. "It is my sincere hope that these workshops would not only support these programs [colleges] but also serve to expand our community's understanding and ability to apply, be accepted and succeed in their post-secondary education."

He hosted the second of four events aimed at raising awareness about registering and paying for college on March 30 at Washington Middle School (WMS).

THE WORKSHOPS

Every workshop begins with a 20-minute program featuring two guest speakers. The workshop at WMS featured Martin Motooka, a member of the Hawai'i Association for College Admission Counseling, and Sandy Wong of the Fukunaga Scholarship Foundation Both offered advice to help students defray the cost of higher education.

After hearing from the guest speakers, attendees browse and speak with vendors including various local universities, scholarship organizations, nonprofits and other state programs to learn more about college applications, finances and career paths.

TAKA

A WAY TO PREPARE

UH Mānoa is one of the key vendors at these workshops. Justin Wamsley, a UH Mānoa admissions counselor who ran an information table at the WMS Takai offered a similar sentiment legel who didn't understand how about the workshops and said they are a valuable opportunity for high school students and their families to get informed early about life in college. He said his aim in creating the program was to unite students and parents with the state's collegiate community.

"I believe that communication and information are vital tools that our Hawai'i families need to be equipped with as they begin planning to pay and apply for college," Takai said.

Wamsley also emphasized that workshop, believes that attend- the college prep workshops are not

"You not only learn about the academics but about new things that could impact you later in life [at Takai's college-prep events.]"

– NICK CHANG

STUDENT AMBASSADOR, HONOLULU COMMUNITY COLLEGE

ing college-prep events is one of the ways a high school student can better prepare themselves for the demands and expectations of college

"It's important that high school students are familiar with the resources that are available to them before college," Wamsley said. He also said students who prep for college and look at deadlines early are often better off than their peers who "play catch up" in their applications

intended only for high school students but also for current college students who would like to gain a better understanding of the components of the financial aid process.

"I think understanding exactly what you're getting into when vou pull out financial aid is crucial, understanding interest rates, understanding how they're going to inflate, when they're going to kick in, all of that kind of stuff," Wamsley said. "I've met people who have graduated [from colit all worked."

LEARN SOMETHING NEW

Takai noted that the workshops are a chance for college students to learn about the recent changes that have been made to the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA) form. In the past, parents were required to fill out FAF-SAs with the current year's tax form or change the form after filing for taxes. He called the practice "stressful and burdensome" and said eliminating these practices in the FAFSA filing process was an improvement.

Nick Chang, a student ambassador representing Honolulu Community College at the WMS workshop and a UH Manoa senior, offered another reason for university students to attend the workshops.

"If you look at the different vendors here, it's not only about college but it's also about going into the military, looking into local programs on the island ... [and] opportunities for after college," Chang said. "So you not only learn about the academics but about new things that could impact you later in life"

What do you think? Let us know @KaLeoOHawaii

FILE PHOTO / KA LEO O HAWAI'I 🔺 Before his work as a U.S. Congressman, Takai worked in the Hawai'i State Legislature for 20 years.

> UPCOMING WORKSHOPS

MORE INFO

DATE Tuesday May 3, 2016

LOCATION Mililani High School 95-1200 Meheula Parkway

HOURS 6:30 p.m.- 8:30 p.m.

DATE Thursday

May 5, 2016

LOCATION Kaimuki Middle School 631 18th Avenue

HOURS 6:00 p.m.- 8:00 p.m.

To RSVP, call (808) 541-2570 or email hi01.rsvpevents@mail.house.gov.

Courtney Teague Associate News Editor

Victor Ong news@kaleo.org @kaleoohawaii News Editor

05

How safe is your food?

A look into campus cafeteria operations

NICOLE TAM STAFF WRITER

One Gateway resident was in for a surprise when he unknowingly picked up a chocolate chip and cockroach cookie at Hale Aloha Cafe.

Adam Ferrier, a transfer student from Arizona was about to bite into the cookie when he discovered the insect on the bottom.

"We're paying too much for services that are not very high quality," he said

UH Mānoa chose Sodexo, an international food management company, to ensure food safety and operate under Mānoa Dining Services (MDS).

MDS only received two reported incidents over the past year -agrill particle on a burger and a bug inside a salad, according to Donna Ojiri, general manager of Sodexo at UH Mānoa.

Ojiri said the affected cookie could have been the manufacturer's issue, because cookies arrive to campus as frozen products.

"We hope [inspectors] catch it before the student catches it ... but we make thousands of cookies [per day]," Ojiri said. "We are very concerned about food safety. ... Food safety is critical to us as a food service management company."

THE FOOD TRAIL

Shipments of food arrive daily since MDS feeds over 1,000 people per day. Oiiri explained the inspection process from the factory to a student's plate:

When the truck delivers food to campus, it's either placed into refrigeration or dry storage. Temperatures are also taken from the refrigerator to ensure it's below 38 degrees Fahrenheit

Temperature checks are done throughout the day and every batch of food is checked every two hours to ensure the appropriate temperature.

Chefs cook products to their appropriate temperature and each [at Gateway Cafe] are very clean. They always clean the kitchen and I have no problem with [their services]," Hong said.

ANNUAL INSPECTIONS

Surprise yearly inspections are done by the state Department of Health and Sodexo Oiiri said

Sodexo hires a third-party company such as EcoSure and NSF to audit campus food based on company standards, which are higher than the state, according to Ojiri.

She said the difference between

"We hope [inspectors] catch [food safety issues] before the student catches it ... We are very concerned about food safety."

GENERAL MANGER OF SODEXO AT UH MĀNOA

- DONNA OIIRI

batch temperature is recorded. Depending on time, some foods are held in food warmers.

Food served at the cafeterias is inspected on the mainland and again when it arrives to campus. If products do not meet temperature or quality standards, they will be sent back to the manufacturer

Declan Hong, a UH Mānoa sophomore majoring in international comparative studies, dines in Gateway and Hale Aloha Cafes regularly but has never experienced issues inspections is that Sodexo also conducts employee observations, and reviews temperature and training logs

"You wanna double check to make sure it's clean. If you have the same company year after year, it's good to change," Ojiri said.

MDS hasn't failed an inspection within the six years of Ojiri's service, she said.

STUDENT FEEDBACK

Ojiri said student feedback What do you think? "Most of the time, workers here is important in order to keep Let us know @KaLeoOHawaii improving MDS.

"Feedback is important to us and if students just don't want to come and find a supervisor, they can just text us the information, it really helps when we can see it," Oiiri said.

The Sodexo North American division serves more that 15 million consumers per day, according to its webstie.

She meets with the Associated Students of the University of Hawai'i (ASUH) and the Residence Housing Association (RHA) at least once a year to discuss food safety to receive student feedback.

MDS sends out a survey regarding food quality, hours of operation and dining room questions every October. Results are not published but announcements are made on the Sodexo UH Mānoa Facebook page.

Another initiative launched in Spring 2015 to seek student feedback from Sodexo was called myDtxt. Users can text "Mānoa" before their message to 82257 and comment about MDS.

This feature allows students to submit comments without their name.

To submit a report of issue on site, students can contact any on duty supervisor.

does not oversee all campus eateries. Below is a list of locations that MDS has and does not have iurisdiction over.

MORE INFO

Mānoa Dining Services (MDS)

icole tam / ka leo o hawai'i 4

Gateway Cafe

Retail locations:

- · Simply to go
- lamba luice
- Pizza Hut Express
- Stir Fresh
- Campus Center Food Court Starbucks
- Ba-Le
- The Market

DOES NOT OVERSEE

- Paradise Palms
- Any food truck on campus The Curb at Sinclair Library

To fill out a MDS feedback survey, visit uhm.sodexomvwav.com.

For more information, call 808-956-FOOD or send a text beginning with "Mānoa" to 82257.

DOES OVERSEE: Resident dining Halls:

Hale Aloha Cafe

OPINIONS

Kimberlee Speakman Opinions Editor

Expand the ban on hoverboards

Exploding hoverboards are risky business in campus laboratories

BROOKE ALCURAN STAFF WRITER

As of March 28, "hoverboards," two-wheel transportation devices that do not actually "hover," were banned by the University of Hawai'i at Mānoa's Office of Residential Life from all campus housing facilities.

Although Student Housing Services has not come across any incidents of injury with the devices, the potential danger of the hoverboards should not be taken lightly. Last December, a board exploded in the Outlet Connection Mall in Auburn, Washington while a shopper was riding it. Another hoverboard explosion was the cause of a fire that burned down a Louisiana family's entire home.

Due to the hoverboards' susceptibility to combustion, UH Mānoa officials should expand the ban on the devices to campus buildings that house chemical laboratories such as Snyder Hall or Bilger Hall.

CATCHING FIRE

In December 2015, Jay Whitacre, professor of Materials Science and Engineering at Carnegie Mellon University, talked to Wired about how hoverboards are made. Especially for the more affordable brands of hoverboards, factories are using cheap lithium-ion batteries that lack the same "quality and consistency" as those made by "top tier producers such as LG or Samsung."

With people banging up boards or smashing them into things at high speeds, the possibility of battery explosions are very likely.

In addition, cheaply made batteries may have small defects that can cause them to short circuit and explode during usage. Whitacre said that cheaper batteries may have a separator that is not aligned correctly simply irrational."

or has small holes thanks to impu-rities in metal particles. The separator is meant to separate the battery's plus and minus sides. Therefore,

a defective separator may cause a

Charging the batteries is another problem. A defective charger can overcharge a battery cell and create a fire hazard, although less common of an occurrence. "In cases of severe overcharge, even perfectly made cells will eventually fail, though a fire is not always the outcome in this case,"

Whitacre said

short circuit and start a fire.

"With chemicals and liquids that are already highly combustible in chemistry labs such as alkali metals, adding another risk factor in the lab with hoverboards is

FIRE HAZARDS IN A LABORATORY ARE NOT A GOOD IDEA

In chemistry, heat and fire are used to learn about certain concepts. However, combustion from a student's hoverboard inside of a lab is unsafe.

In laboratories that use chemicals, such as Snyder Hall and Bilger Hall, the homes of the microbiology and chemistry departments, it is risky business to allow hoverboards inside. With chemicals and liquids that are already highly combustible in chemistry labs such as alkali metals, adding another risk factor in the lab with hoverboards

Also, imagine what it would be like if a fire started in a lab.

Not to mention, fires from lithium-ion batteries are not easy to put out and can grow on itself.

According to Whitacre, the battery cells contain highly flammable electrolytes that react with oxygen. When the battery gets hotter, more oxygen is produced from the common cath-is simply irrational.

ode materials, stoking the fire even more. If a student drops his hoverboard, breaks the battery cell and causes a fire within a lab, the chances of something destructive happening is high.

COLEGES AROUND THE U.S. ARE BEGINNING TO BAN THEM, TOO

USA Today reported on Jan. 9, 2016 that more than 30 U.S. colleges have already banned or partially-banned hoverboards because of the device's inherent danger.

Schools like UH Mānoa, limit the ban on hoverboards to only residence halls. However, other schools take more precaution. Citing the danger of charging the lithium-ion batteries and storing them in university buildings, all University of Connecticut campuses have banned hoverboards, according to Hartford Courant.

UH Mānoa could consider lifting the ban if the United States Consumer Product Safety Commision— which reported last December that hoverboard consumers should take bold precaution reports that the device is no longer a fire hazard.

For a compilation of hoverboard explosion videos, visit: bit. ly/23n3Eao

What do you think? Let us know @KaLeoOpinions

- MORE INFO

HOVERBOARD EXPLOSION INCIDENTS

Nov. 21, 2015

ILLUSTRATION BY TIMOTHY LEONCIO / KA LEO O HAWAI'I

Electric hoverboard companies are working to prevent further hoverboard explosions.

Location: Lafitte, Louisiana Incident: A 12-year-old boy's hoverboard burst into flames, setting his house on fire, as he charged it.

Nov. 30, 2015

Location: Wong Tai Sin, Hong Kong Incident: A hoverboard exploded and burned down an apartment, leaving a family homeless.

Dec.1, 2015

Location: Gulf Shores, Alabama Incident: A man was riding his new hoverboard when it exploded beneath his feet.

Dec. 28, 2015

Location: Deerbrook Mall in Humble, Texas Incident: A hoverboard at a kiosk exploded, then caught fire causing the mall to be evacuated.

Jan. 26, 2015

Location: Petaluna, California Incident: A Mini Smart Self Balancing 2 Hoverboard exploded and burst into flames at a Petaluna family home.

Ashley Maria Marketing Director advertising7@kaleo.org

ADVERTISING

ACCEPTING APPLICATIONS FOR STUDENT

POSITIONS

Applications available at: KALEO.ORG/SMB OR

KA LEO OFFICE [HEMENWAY 107]

For more info, contact STUDENT MEDIA BOARD UHSMB@HAWAII.EDU or SMB ADVISOR. SANDY MATSUI MATSUIS@HAWAII.EDU

DEADLINE: APRIL 18, 2016

This Earn ummer over

Working for the Department of Parks and Recreation children's Summer Fun Program. If you complete at least one year of college (24 credits) by June 2016 and intend to continue towards a degree in the Fall, apply online at: HONOLULUPARKS.COM

Starting pay: $10.25 per hour

Returning DPR Student Aides: $11.50 per hour. For more information, call 768-3020.

🔇 KA LEO PIZZA-EATING CONTEST

APRIL 15 | ART+FLEA EVENT CAMPUS CENTER COURTYARD

SPONSORED BY Domino's 🔗

contact kourtney@kaleo.org for more info

08 MONDAY, APRIL 11, 2016

FASHION

Christina Yan

special@kaleo.org Nicolyn Charlot

The 50th Annual Fashion Show

KEVIN HARRISON, STAFF WRITER DANIEL CARAVEO, STAFF WRITER KIMBERLEE SPEAKMAN, OPINIONS EDITOR SPENCER OSHITA, ASSOCIATE FEATURES EDITOR

The Fashion and Design Merchandising's annual senior fashion show is composed of 10 student designers and will take place on May 1 at Kennedy Theatre. This year's theme, "roots," represents the foundation show participants built themselves from. The root is the guidance faculty members provided to the students, and the plant is the result - the aspiration of the students.

Designer: Cheryl Ishii Fashion Design and Merchandising Junior

With hopes of one day launching her own line, UH Mānoa's icons, including Alexander Wang, Marc Jacobs and Mara Hoffman. fashion show is the first step in transitioning Cheryl Ishii's dream into a reality show, Ishii is determined to showcase her best designs at the a career in fashion design after she graduates. 50th anniversary event.

to push yourself more. If it's just for the class, it's okay if you especially the business side," Ishii said. "Eventually, I would like make a mistake. But, for the fashion show, I've got to do it well." to create my own brand."

a solo designer.

For her individual pieces that are to be modeled on the blocking" as a foundation in creating her original designs. ferent events and using this as a stepping stone into the world Color blocking is a method in which fashion designers choose of fashion. blocks of bold complementary or contrasting colors to be worn together

Ishii also finds inspiration from the work of famed fashion

"They use new color combinations, new silhouettes or new techniques that could potentially influence my designs." Despite the anxiety associated with being part of the fashion Aside from the upcoming fashion show, Ishii wants to pursue

"I would like to work for a fashion company as an assistant "I get nervous every time I think about it," Ishii said. "You have designer so I can learn more about the real world of fashion,

She will present three designs at the fashion show: one as She says that she would like to design clothes for her cona collaboration with other fashion students and two pieces as temporaries, particularly people in their 20's and 30's who eniov a balance between fancy and casual.

As for her immediate future, in addition to focusing on runway, Ishii uses clean lines, contrasting shapes and "color school, she is looking into collaborating with Art + Flea at dif-

Designer: Carly Tanimoto Fashion Design and Merchandising Senior Mililani native Carly Tanimoto's inspiration comes from Hawai'i.

Designer: Moses Gouveia Fashion Design and Merchandising Senior

FASHION

"I would say I've just always had a passion for the design industry and I think what inspires me the most is here in Hawai'i: the culture and the people." Tanimoto said.

She's also been focusing on lessening the environmental impact of the fashion industry. She said for this fashion show, the Fashion Design department and herself will be using natural dyes and fabrics and looking to decrease water usage during the production process. She describes her work as something that is centered around her heritage and sustainability. In addition, some Asian and American nesses or intern at a company that is environmentally friendly. influences were incorporated.

"We pulled a lot of inspiration from our theme [and] we pulled inspiration from plantation life in Hawai'i," Tanimoto said. "We want to zoom in on what's authentically Hawai'i and how so many cultures came to be in one place; I think that's part of what makes Hawai'i so special."

Moses Gouveia has been to a lot of places, from Virginia to Oklahoma to Kansas and back. Over the past year, he has been preparing new designs for his "Lost Tropical Gardens" collection for the annual UH Mānoa Spring Fashion Show.

"My [designs] were inspired by Hawai'i, particularly Mānoa Valley because of the greenery, and it rains almost daily, so everything's always green and fresh. So, I'm using spring colors like green and pink and stuff of that nature," Gouveia said.

He said that he is excited to show his designs, a collection of nine pieces, which include swimwear, day pieces, cocktail pieces and an evening gown.

However, while Gouveia has recently found his passion for design, it wasn't always this way.

Although Gouveia wasn't sure what kind of job he wanted to pursue, he began designing in high school.

"I've always been designing things for my friends since I was young - in high school designing pictures, but I hadn't decided to go onto design until I went HCC in 2010."

Gouveia moved from Kansas to Hawai'i in 2009 and began taking fashion design classes at HCC soon after. It was through his time and

Designer: Kari Begay Fashion Design and Merchandising Senior

Originally from the southwestern United States, Begay wanted to escape the deserts of her childhood and start a new story. She thought zoology would be her opportunity to become a veterinarian, but her plans changed as she got closer to graduation.

"I was going to apply for grad school," Begay said. "But I didn't want to take that risk and not like it. So I switched over to fashion." While working through her fashion major, sometimes struggling with the lack of specialization among professors in the department, she ended up creating pieces for the fashion show last year.

"I had made a gown," she said. "Everything was going against me at that point, but when you see other people talking about your design, but not really knowing that you made them, that's when I felt that I could do this, that my designs were actually going to go somewhere." Begay took this year to explore more of her ideas in the fashion world, and figure out her rhythm.

"I can't just pick it up; it takes me a while to get in the zone," Begay said. "My least favorite part would be troubleshooting the design. You

To accomplish this, Tanimoto pulled inspiration from photos from 1950's plantation life. She also said that she wants her work to paint a picture of what it is like to live in Hawai'i that is separate from the tourist image.

"I love working with classmates; they're all really talented. There's a really great energy when we're all together in the studio trying to create something," Tanimoto said. "It's interesting because we have a group collection but [we] also get individual pieces."

Tanimoto said people should come out and support the FDM Department because it is a small operation. She thinks Hawai'i has great potential to become a fashion capital, but she feels that Hawai'i's been overlooked because it is so isolated.

"I think that this fashion show is a great way to showcase what Hawaiian fashion designers have to offer . . . it's a way for people to get a look into the Hawai'i fashion industry," Tanimoto said.

After she graduates in the fall, she may want to start her own busi-experiences at HCC that made Gouveia decide to pursue fashion design. "One of my really good friends recently passed away, but I designed stuff for her," Gouveia said. "She was the one that kind of pushed me toward becoming a fashion designer."

With this push, he continued his path to become a fashion designer, graduating from HCC in 2013 and transferring to UH Mānoa to continue his education in design. During his time at UH Mānoa, he said his most important experience in designing came from an internship with local and national fashion designer, Kini Zamora.

Gouveia met Zamora at one of Zamora's presentations at UH Mānoa last fall and asked him for an internship, which helped him decide where he wanted to take his designs.

"He showed me the designs and I actually draped it and started sewing it. It was exciting, but also a little nervous because he's like in the public and he's professional and I'm just a student and I felt like I was capable, but it's still nerve-wracking when you have to produce designs for another designer," Gouveia said.

Gouveia hopes to take his own designs to the next level in the future and potentially run his own business in the fashion world. Right now he's focusing on starting his own line, potentially called "M. Gouveia Designs," and branching out from there.

"In the future, I want to get into textiles - textile design," Gouveia said. "It's like starting my own printing business, investing in my own digital printer and customizing prints. [I'd be] doing it for myself and as a service for other fashion designers."

However, Gouveia said that he'd be happy with starting a boutique, too.

can't figure out why it's not doing what you want it to do. I like sewing, I love pattern making ... [and] the entire process. It's also kind of frustrating when you can't find the fabrics you want, so you ... have to go back and revamp the whole thing from the beginning."

Begay loves motor culture, and her collection in this year's fashion show is centered around fashion for riders of motor bikes.

"Safety gets compromised a lot when you're trying to find stuff to wear," she said. "What's really important about this collection is that I wanted to create clothes that were feminine and that remained feminine in a really tough environment. ... I want to add a scientific layer to it that allows people to take you seriously in [fashion]. I want people to be safe. ... These works have burlesque silhouettes. Like Bond girls, they always have that sophistication and allure. I wanted to capture that."

Begay has found her footing in fashion, and she discovered a drive to make people happy.

"It's seeing the transformation people go through," she said. "When people get a makeover, when you can dress people right and they feel really good about the outside. I feel like that transfers to the inside, and people start to feel really good about themselves. ... So I feel like it's really good to make someone feel that way... and kind of change the world that way."

OPINIONS

Let the prisoners go Why releasing Hawai'i's inmates could be a good thing

> STEVE DORMAN / FLICKR ▲ On Apr. 12, 2016, it will be decided whether HB 2391 will reach the Senate floor.

CARLY YASHIKI

The state of Hawai'i is extremely close to being noted for a lawsuit due to overcrowded jails. As of March 7, 2016, O'ahu jails had a capacity of 954 with an exceeding headcount of 1,208 inmates, according to KHON. All states are exhibiting the same problem.

The lawmakers' solution? Releasing inmates with a focus on non-violent misdemeanors in order to make more room in jails. House Bill 2391 would allow the state Department of Public Safety to grant pretrial or sentenced inmates' release. This bill will not affect anyone that is currently in prison and will not release inmates with a bail set higher than $5,000 or domestic violence

So far, about 351 inmates are qualified for release. Not only will this discharge of inmates ease crowded jails, but also taxpayer's wallets. According to the Department of Safety, it costs about $128 per day to house one inmate. It's not only time to release these prisoners – it's also time to bring awareness of how crowded these facilities have become. Something needs to be done.

Releasing prospective inmates will provide an effective fix for an increasing problem in Hawai'i.

IT'S GETTING REALLY STUFFY

"We have over 100 inmates sleeping on the floor with their heads next to the toilet every night, and those are unacceptable conditions for human beings to be incarcerated under," Public Safety Director Nolan Espinda said to KHON in regards to the Hawai'i Community opinions@kaleo.org Kimberlee Speakman @kaleoopinions Opinions Editor

Center in Hilo.

State Rep. Karl Rhoads believes that there isn't another way to solve the problem.

"I don't see any other rational way to address it at this point. Eventually we're going to get sued," he said.

"We have over 100 inmates sleeping on the floor with their heads next to the toilet every night."

– NOLAN ESPINDA PUBLIC SAFETY DIRECTOR

He may be right. Due to crowded jails this has been an on going issue in Hawai'i dating back to the 1980's when the state was also forced to reduce crowding. Releasing inmates with non-violent misdemeanors may be the first step towards regulating the state's jail's overcrowded population.

HOW HAS IT WORKED BEFORE?

There is a concern of having more criminals out in society. However, according to a Sentencing Commission Analysis completed in the U.S, there was no drastic difference in criminal behavior before and after the sentencing was changed.

During the analysis, sentencing decreased criminal crack cocaine possession by two levels. During this time, 16,000 prisoners had a sentence reduction of 150 months to 126 months. It was found that there was no difference when comparing the difference of recidivism, or relapse into criminal behavior, between the Commission's first change in 2007. When applying this study to Hawai'i's jail situation, it can be predicted that there could be little to no change in recidivism when misdemeanor criminals are released, especially since their crimes revolve around low-violence instances.

WE'RE PAYING HOW MUCH?

Incarceration comes with a great price to pay, especially for taxpayers in particular. In Hawai'i, caring for an inmate costs about $20,000 a year; however, according to the Pew Center, those numbers nearly doubled. A 29-month sentence can cost taxpayers more than $113,000 in Hawai'i - which is applicable to nearly everyone. If the inmates with low-violent crimes are released, there would ultimately ease the burden on tax payers' wallets.

FIXING A TROUBLESOME PROBLEM

"If you start cramming more and more people into a confined space, you're going to create more tensions and problems," said David Maurer, director of Homeland Security Issues for the GAO.

Not only is an over crowded jail financially threatening to the state, but it also imposes a danger on the workers as well. According to a GAO report, 14 federal prison workers have been assaulted with weapons and 45 workers that were assaulted by inmates were unarmed due to the improper guard-to-prisoner ratio.

The strain is also being put onto the dining halls, bathrooms and laundry rooms. A crowded prison affects the safety of prison staff and prisoners alike.

'Summer Plans' KHARI SAFFO / COMICS EDITOR

KA LEO O HAWAI'I: THE VOICE MONDAY, APR. 11, 2016

Shane Grace / Reese Kato Associate Photo Editors

Ken Reyesphotos@kaleo.orgPhoto Editor@kaleophotos

11

KAWAII KON

KENT NISHIMURA / STAFF PHOTOGRAPHER

Celebrating its 12 year, Kawaii-Kon 2016 featured cosplayers – the practice of dressing up as a character from a movie, book or video game – as their favorite manga, anime, cartoon or comic book characters. The three-day event, featured speaking panels, video game and board game rooms, a fashion show and cosplay contest, among other attractions.

The portraits here were taken using the now discontinued Fujifilm FP-100c instant print packfilm. The film was shot with a custom modified polaroid instant film back on a large format 4x5 camera in conjunction with a studio strobe and a fabric backdrop.

 Michelle Shellko cosplaying as Merida Dunbroc from Pixar's "Brave."

Kay Nguyen, ► cosplaying as "Mr. A" from the anime, "Parasyte The Maxim."

 Jasmine Kenndey cosplaying as a zombie version of Miyazaki's Princess Mononoke.

 Jessie Gabriel, cosplaying as Batman's The Joker.

• Atis Puampai cosplaying as Spike Spigel from "Cowboy Bebop."

FEATURES

Aloha Bash was called off in 2015 due to a lack of available funding, security and overall resources.

Royalty returns

Common Kings return for Aloha Bash 2016

them the tickets would have cost

$10. In addition to reducing the ticket price, SAPFB will be handing to the success of the event and will be working to support the Activi-out freebies at the concert.

The previous Aloha Bash featured artists like The Green and Anuhea.

ZEBLEY FOSTER ASSOCIATE COPY EDITOR

Get ready for royalty, because on April 29 Common Kings, The Vitals and The Steppas will be taking over Andrews Amphitheater for Aloha Bash 2016.

Organized by the Campus Center Activities Council [AC] in partnership with the Students Activities and Program Fee Board (SAPFB) and Mānoa Dining Services, it's the first time the event is being planned and organized entirely by students.

"Aloha Bash was created by students. AC kind of went through a rough patch with their events so advisors took Aloha Bash off and other signature events such as Taste of Mānoa and Mānoa Laughs just to kind of relieve some of the stress of AC," Ashley Kupua, AC chairwoman, said. "As soon as we started becoming a sort of solid foundation like we are now, the advisors decided to pass on the signature events to the students again."

CREATING A COMMUNITY

Students at other UH campuses are always invited, but this year they won't have to purchase the tickets at the general admission price.

"We wanted to create more of a community," Kupua said. "...What we wanted to reiterate by allowing system student fees to be the same price as Mānoa's, because even though you're at a different campus you're still with us.'

Student tickets will cost $5

the ticket pre sale events," Robert free," Tupua said. Green, chairperson for SAPFB, said in an email. "Students who purchase a presale ticket will get a limited edition crown bead from SAPFB and will be able to make their own concert bracelets. SAPFB will also be at the Aloha Bash giving away concert items."

PLANNING THE EVENT

As a huge reggae fan herself. Tupua did her own research at venues like the Republik and Major Rager to pick frontline bands for Aloha Bash.

"I take notes on how many students go, and it's quite a bit," Tupua said. "That's why I feel more confident in being like, 'Yeah, they're killing it'."

Aloha Bash 2014, the last time

thanks to SAPFB, where without the event was held, featured [For Aloha Bash] we wanted to do Kimie, Maoli, Jordan T., Josh Tatofi and KATCHAFIRF

This year, the AC decided to decrease the number of perform-"We have financially contributed ers in order to provide more give away items to attendees.

"We want to give actual tangities Council both at the concert and ble objects to our students for

"What we wanted to reiterate by allowing sytem student fees to be the same as Manoa's because even though you're at a different campus you're still with us ."

ACTIVITIES COUNCIL CHAIR

Mānoa Dining Services will have a concession stand where students can buy food and drinks during the event.

TICKETS TO BE AVAILABLE ONLINE

As usual, tickets are available for purchase at the Ticket Center in Campus Center and for the first time, Aloha Bash tickets will be available for purchase online. AC has tried using a similar system for other signature events and decided that this event would be perfect to introduce an online purchase option

"At first, the Mānoa Laughs website [to purchase tickets] was just for general admission, we wanted to see how the system of how it worked," Tupua said.

a will call, so you won't get your ticket till that day. Will call will be a separate thing off to the side. Then we just opened it up for students since they don't have to show I D"

AC's Aloha Bash kick off event will be held on April 11, and attendees can purchase tickets and get Aloha Bash promo items.

////////////////////// Ka Leo O Hawaiʻi MORE INFO -

ALOHA BASH

LOCATION Andrews Ampitheatre

HOURS

7 p.m. - 10 p.m.

PRICE System Students: Pre-Sale: $5 Week Of: $10

General Admission Pre-sale: $20 Week of: $25

WEBSITE: Eventbrite.com

- ASHLEY KUPUA

DATE

April 29, 2016

Doors open at 6:30 p.m.

CONTACT 956-7236 / 956-4491

Zach Johnson Associate Sports Editor

Drew Afualo sports@kaleo.org Sports Editor @kaleosports

IAY YUROW STAFF WRITER

The University of Hawai'i Rainbow Wahine softball team has had their ups and downs this season and currently have a middle-of-the-pack record of 18-21.

Even so, one constant has remained - Brittany Hitchcock, the team's ace on the mound.

A current sophomore at UH, Hitchcock's story is unique. The Huntington Beach. California. native lettered four years in softball, three years in volleyball and one year in soccer at Ocean View high school. In her time there, she was named Ocean View female athlete of the year, made the all league first team and league MVP.

When she arrived at the University of Hawai'i however she ran into trouble when she was diagnosed with a herniated disk in her lower back.

"I came in my freshman year looking to have an impact right away but in November I herniated a disk in my lower back while in the weight room," Hitchcock said. "It had been something I thought I could come back from before the season. It ended up being something that I needed surgery for. I had to rehab my back for six to nine months."

Hitchcock made up for lost time when she returned to baseball as a redshirt freshman. She finished with a 2.37 earned run average in 29 starts. She earned Big West all second team honors and was named a 2015 UH scholar athlete after leading her team in cumulative grade point average.

Ready to return home after a successful year both in the classroom and on the softball diamond, Hitch-

Queen of Diamonds Wahine softball pitcher Brittany Hitchcock leads by example SHANE GRACE / KA LEO O HAWAI'I

Hitchcock currenly holds an ERA of 1.59 over 22 innings pitched in the 2016 season.

unusual fashion. "It was kind of a weird thing to hapcock ran into a rare opportunity in an national team and [that] they really needed a pitcher," Hitchcock said. "He said he had looked up my stats from pen. I was playing in a pickup game Hawai'i and that I was a pretty good

"[Playing for the Puerto Rican national team] was a huge accomplishment for me ... [it] brought a lot of confidence into this year."

- BRITTANY HITCHCOCK

with some other college players. Then someone came up to me during the game and said [his]daughter [was] the pitching coach for the Puerto Rican interested. Of course, I jumped at the opportunity to play on an international level.

UH RAINBOW WAHINE SOFTBALL PITCHER

player. They wanted to know if I was

The pitcher excelled in tournament games during her time on the Puerto Rico national team. Hitchcock helped defeat the Japanese national team in a game she pitched and also got the opportunity to start a game against the U.S. national team.

"Every girl on the [U.S.] team is basically the number one hitter on their Division I college team. So it was definitely no small task to go up against those batters," Hitchcock said. "[Playing for the Puerto Rican team] was a huge accomplishment for me. I think just plaving against that level brought [me] a lot of confidence into this year." Confidence on the mound has worked well against opposing batters for Hitchcock this season. Through 18 appearances, 16 starts and 98.3 innings pitched this year. Hitchcock has an earned a run average of 2.56. She also has struck out 66 batters, and holds opposition batting at just .271 collectively against her.

"We've been relying on both Brittany and our other veteran Kanani [Aina Cabrales]," head coach Bob Coolen said. "Brittany's been doing well this year. She's been cutting out on her strikeout to walk ratio, in regards to less walks and more strikeouts. She's focused on the mound"

////////////////////// Ka Leo O Hawaiʻi

Let's hear it for the 'Bows

ZACH IOHNSON Associate Sports Editor

As far as men's vollevball programs go, Hawai'i is at the top of the list for potential international and local recruits.

UH has the best competition in the world and the fans have a passion for the game that you can't find anywhere else.

"I played in Italy and Turkey for Serbia, and the people are there to just watch the game," senior Sinisa Zarkovic said. "The people here love the game, they enjoy supporting and they understand the game."

After playing their final game at Stan Sheriff Saturday night seniors Kolbe Kanetake and Zarkovic were honored in the traditional senior night ceremony.

Following the presentation both showed their gratitude to the UH fan base with a 20 minute lap around the stadium, talked with fans, signed autographs and took pictures.

"I'm just so thankful, grateful and appreciative of everyone that supported me here. It just goes to show that you can't come anywhere better than here because people care digs list with 772. Along with being one so much about you. It's an awesome feeling and amazing."

As both walked off the court for the final time at home, fans are left with the memories the two players from opposite sides of the world made in the past four years.

"Emotions are definitely skyrocketing," Zarkovic said. "I appreciate the great crowd that came in, and I just love this place, it's just great ... thank you to the fans. It will be one of the best moments of my life."

LOCAL BOY KANETAKE

Kanetake was born and raised in Honolulu and has idolized the 'Bows vollevball teams since he was five.

"I had season tickets to the men's and women's vollevball games here. so this has been a dream and one of my goals for awhile," Kanetake said.

The dream became a reality for the four-year letterman and starting libero after being recruited by head coach Charlie Wade.

In four years, Kanetake has positioned himself in third (behind former players Ric Cervantes, 936 and Alfred Reft, 815) in the university's all-time of the top liberos in the country.

"[It] seems like it went so fast, doesn't seem like he has been here for four years," Kolby's dad Ken Kanetake said. "I'm just very proud and he worked very hard through his career to make him what he is today."

Coming into this year, Kanetake was a pre-season All American pick [freshman] what it is all about and how important it is."

UH'S FAVORITE SERBIAN 'SIKI"

Zarkovic, on the other hand, was born in Paralimni, Cyprus and grew up in Belgrade, Serbia. Since coming to Hawai'i, the starting outside hitter has been a four-year starter for the 'Bows and ranks eighth in the all-time

"I don't think I would have grown as a person or as a player anywhere else. This place made me a better person."

> - SINISA ZARKOVIC UH MEN'S VOLLEYBALL OUTSIDE HITTER

after finishing second in the Mountain Pacific Sports Feferation (MPSF) with 305 digs and was named to the All MPSF Second Team last season.

In doing so. Kanetake took on more of a leadership role as the 'Bows ushered in a wave of freshman.

"This year has been huge [with] leadership on the court, in the locker room and outside of volleyball," Kanetake said. "Just kind of showing them most career kills with 1,256. Currently, Zarkovic is having the best season of his career and leads the team with a 4.07 kill average, while holding a .306 hitting percentage

Prior to coming to UH, he was a member of the Serbian National team from 2008-12. In his childhood, he competed in 86 international matches and won gold medals at the 2009 and 2011 Federal International de Volleyball (FIVB) World Youth Championships in Italy and Turkey.

Upon completing Sports Grammar school. Zarkovic had a desire to go to the U.S. So after Wade made a visit to Serbia, the Belgrade native chose to come to the islands.

After his first year in a 'Bows uniform, father and former Serbian National team coach Milan made the transfer to be an assistant coach and join his son as a part of the Warrior program.

"He chose his road, but I can not say he chose the road on his own," UH assistant coach and father Milan Zarkovic said. "We have to give you the opportunities to experience. He chose this place and had the opportunity to come here and I can tell you he changed a lot [since he's been here]"

'Siki' (as he's known amongst fans and friends) will graduate in May with a dual degree in Accounting and Finance and plans to stay in Hawai'i

"I didn't know it would be the best decision I have [ever] made in my life," Zarkovic said. "I don't think I would have grown as a person or as a player anywhere else. This place made me a happier and better person."

MONDAY, APR. 11, 2016 KA LEO O HAWAI'I: THE VOICE

SPORTS

COMICS

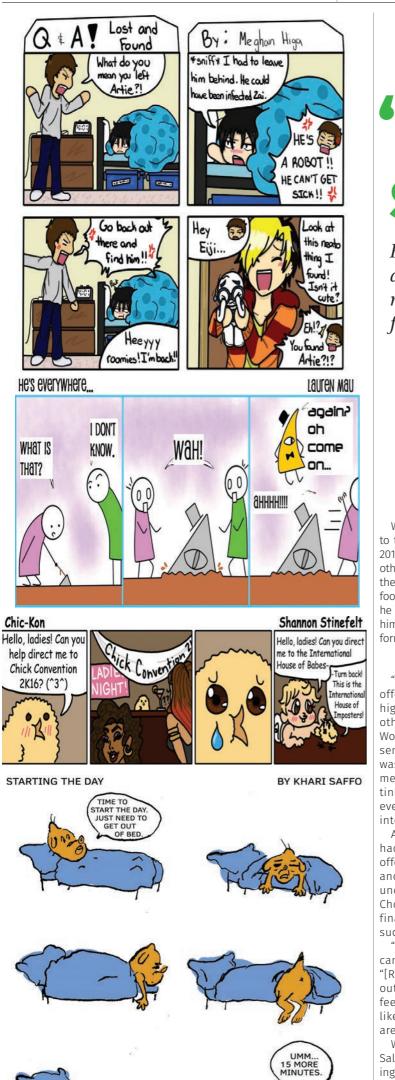

KA LEO O HAWAI'I: THE VOICE

comics@kaleo.org Khari Saffo Comics Editor

SPORTS

sports@kaleo.org @kaleosports

Drew Afualo Sports Editor

Reunited, Ikaika Woolsey and Nick Rolovich look to restore UH football to its former glory together

Woolsey appeared in all 13 games as the holder and reserve quarterback in the 2015 season.

DAVID MCCRACKEN STAFF WRITER

When Ikaika Woolsey was recruited to the University of Hawai'i back in 2011. he had no scholarship offers other than UH. He put his future in the hands of the Rainbow Warrior football program — but most of all, he believed in the man who recruited him to Mānoa out of Richmond. California when no one else did.

THAT MAN IS NICK ROLOVICH.

"Coach Rolo was the one who offered me a scholarship out of high school; I didn't have any other offers; I only had Hawai'i," Woolsey said. "I've always had a sense of loyalty to that man. He was the only one who believed in me from the jump, so I just continued to work hard and now, everything seems to be falling into place.

As a sixth year senior. Woolsev had been apart of a lot different offensive schemes: From the runand-shoot to pro-style offense under former head coach Norm Chow, Woolsey feels that he is finally in the right system to be successful.

"This is a system I originally came here doing," Woolsey said. "[Rolovich] recruited me here out of high school so it definitely feels good to be back in it. I feel like we made a lot of strides and are headed in the right direction."

Woolsey was a quarterback for Salesian High School before coming to Hawaiʻi. At Salesian, Woolsey threw for 2,492 yards and 36 touchdowns to just six interceptions. As a senior, he rushed for 205 yards and six touchdowns.

Rolovich recruited Woolsey to be an integral part of his signature pistol offense that he implemented during his time as offensive coordinator at UH and at Nevada before Chow took over and chose not to retain Rolovich as the team's offensive coordinator.

While Woolsey has experience playing in this system under center, Rolovich still sees Woolsey as a work in progress.

"I see him being coached four or five different times in his career," Rolovich said. "I see things that are gonna be hard because he's so used to doing different things because of the other coaches he's had. I'm trying to let him start over in his mind and have a clean slate, but he's been told a lot of things.'

"I've always had a sense of loyalty to that man. He was the only one who believed in me ..."

Despite their longstanding relationship. Rolovich plays no favoritism with his quarterbacks as Woolsey, Aaron Zwahlen and Beau Reilly all split repetitions easily.

"I think all of us are doing a great job," Zwahlen said. "It's a friendly competition. We all hang out and go golfing on the weekends. We know there's a spot to be won, but we all just want this team to be better. Coach said it best: the best players are going to play."

DANI DURAN / KA LEO O HAWAI'I 🔺

HEIGHT: 6"1 CLASS: Redshirt senior HOMETOWN: Rodeo, California PREVIOUS SCHOOL: Salesian High School

IN THE 2015 SEASON: • Passed a total of 908 yards

• Rushed for 84 yards

Recorded two touchdowns

UPCOMING 2016-17 SEASON

Aug. 27 2016: vs California

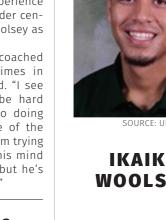

Sept. 3 2016: vs. Michigan

Sept. 10 2016: vs. Tennessee Martin

Sept. 17 2016: vs. Arizona

- IKAIKA WOOLSEY UH OUARTERBACK

FACTOID

15

ADVERTISING

EMPLOYMENT MĀNOA career center

ON-CAMPUS PART-TIME

ICS 101 TEACHING ASSISTANT

Information & Computer Sciences | $15.00/hour Close Date: 4/29/16 or when filled

Teaching assistant will lead 2 undergraduate laboratory sections of ICS101. Including: creating and delivering lesson plans, grading assignments and holding contact hours for student help. Advanced skills required in Microsoft Office Suite, Adobe Photoshop and Dreamweaver. Advanced skills in UNIX and Microsoft Windows. Demonstrates professional presentation skills. Excellent people skills a must, job requires constant assistance of novice computer users.

lob Number: 23228

OFF-CAMPUS FULL-TIME

ENVIRONMENTAL COMPLIANCE SPECIALIST Board of Water Supply | Salary: TBD Close Date: 7/31/16 or when filled

Plans, determines and enforces the department's water system compliance with all applicable federal and state laws, rules and regulations related to the elimination and prevention of environmental pollution. Assess and mitigate any chemical, biological, physical hazards that pose a potential threat to drinking water. Investigates sources of environmental pollution that pose a threat to the department's ability to deliver safe drinking water. See job listing for more details

lob Number: 142150

OFF-CAMPUS PART-TIME

RESTAURANT SERVERS

Harbor Restaurant at Pier 38 | $8.50/hour Close Date: 7/1/2016 or when filled

Serves patrons by providing information to help food and beverage selections; presenting ordered choices; maintaining dining ambiance. Prepares the tables, laying out napkins and utensils, making sure the condiments are refilled, performing all other preparation tasks. Staying updated on current menu choices, specialties and menu deviations, knowing if the kitchen staff is running out of any items... etc. See job listing for more details.

Job Number: 174723

INTERNSHIPS & COOPERATIVE EDUCATION (CO-OP)*

XEROX – SALES INTERN

Xerox Hawai'i | Compensation: $14.00/hour | Close Date: 4/30/16

Candidates must be enrolled in a Bachelor' program with a minimum 3.0/4.0 GPA. Mus Office with excellent written and verbal co In this 10 week full-time internship, the car participate on various teams and projects wit The internship will also allow for exposure to F and major industries targeted for Xerox soluti Arts, Financial Services, Manufacturing, and /or Public Sector entities. See job listing for more details.

Job Number: 130303

*WHAT IS CO-OP? Like internships, Co-ops are education-based and career-related.It is a nation-wide program comprised of a partnership between the employer, the student and the university. Co-ops are paid and require a two semester commitment.

rs or Master's degree st be proficient in MS ommunication skills.	71 Casual attire 72 Neuter
ndidate can expect to thin a field sales team.	73 Footfall
Fortune 1000 Accounts ons. including Graphic

GO TO: KALEO.ORG for the answers to our weekly crossword

Provided by Puzzle Junction

DOWN

1 Prattle

2 Totally

4 Annoy

6 Eyeball

man

butane

memos 17 Scarlet views

35 Wing

21 Grunge

22 Average 23 Dill seed

24 Exchange of

27 Pesky insect 31 Freudian topics

26 Dinghy propeller

34 Heavy overcoat

36 Appear to be 38 Three. in Toscana

40 Authentic

42 Legal action

44 Quiche, e.g.

53 Bench wear

55 ___-Magnon 56 Football gains

60 Shoshonean

64 Hoops group

65 Thick fl at pad

66 Fr. summer

67 Agent (Abbr.)

46 Your (Fr.)

47 Reiterate

48 Pass by

50 Paltry

58 Boys

63 Shred

inits.

3 Old French coin

5 Secret cliques

Bravo

9 Offered by a con

10 Countries of Asia

11 Methane and

14 Quickly, in

13 Russian fi ghter

8 Diarist Frank

ACROSS

Blondie

9 Slough

at times

18 Fleur-de-

20 Raptors

22 Beeped

25 Journal

30 Rational

32 Young newts

33 Variety shows 37 Shabby

45 Show to the door

47 Monthly expense

39 Bank clerk

41 Trunks

43 At rest

49 Cripple

52 Patriarch

55 Vesicles 57 Walk a beat

59 Mystique

61 Govt. watchdog

62 Thespian on the

69 Okay to eat 70 See socially

54 Attorney F.

51 Expire

Bailey

move 68 Querv

1 Shocked reaction

5 Mrs. Dithers in

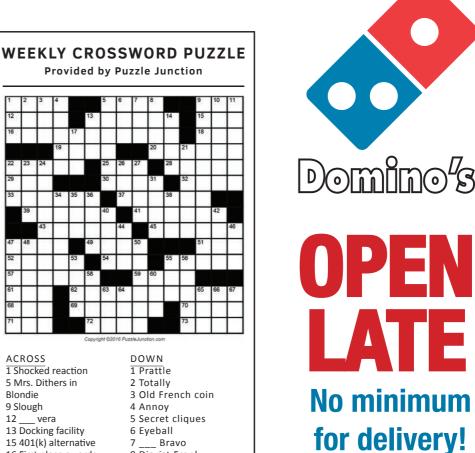

12 ____ vera 13 Docking facility

15 401(k) alternative

16 First place awards,

19 Lyra's brightest star

28 Lying facedown 29 Blackbird

ValueMenustartsat

Order Online dominos.com or Use your App

2424 S. Beretania St. 808.744.2283

TO APPLY, GO TO HAWAII.EDU/SECE

16 MONDAY, APR. 11, 2016

KA LEO O HAWAI'I: THE VOICE

ADVERTISING

Ashlev Maria Marketing Director

