

Past International Year of the Indigenous People ? Into a new millennium.

Ramana Rao

*The Gondwana has long since gone under Flounders still, the gond promised lands in plunder Romany gypsy is chased by a hound haunted by memories fond Beyond the blue yonder the banjara has to wander Extinct the Moa, the Maori, reel in a world eerie the Sioux is pushed to the edge of Lake Erie Samoa and Pitcairn
Somalia and Scottish cairn Gallopings Cossack war painted Mohawk Chenchu, Chenchita and Cherokee along the swamps of Ofenofekee Igloo, icefloe, the husky sledge far the Eskimo on polar edge In his seal and krill man has pollution to fill Heaping indignity on the indigenous amongst other crimes heinous Alienating his land and custom picturesque soulful to Deums on new world soil Ere Conquistador's soulless despoil
The Bantu, the Toda Arakan yama of Burmese pagoda Theirs was the earth
Of skills, no dearth But modernity has them so swamped they need urgently to be revamped The sky above and the mud below as people they weren't so low When aboriginal from down under comes up above, man would have corrected his blunder Nature and indigenous people's nature, engender nurture greed in modern man's nature, endangers earth, now rupture*

Correspondence

Ramana Rao, Wildlife Biology Section, Department of Zoology, Osmania University, Hyderabad, Andhra Pradesh, INDIA. siriguri@hd2.dot.net.in

Ethnobotany Research & Applications 2:73 (2004)