

The Invisible Threat: Microplastics

Microplastics are pieces of tiny plastic (<5mm) that plague our oceans. There has been a steady increase in microplastics harm to the ocean environment and humans.

Ingesting microplastics through inhalation, oral intake, and skin contact. Doing so can cause organ dysfunction, damage to DNA, along with developmental and reproductive toxicity.

Protect Our Oceans—Reduce Plastic Waste!